DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 21-22 and 31-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Agraharam et al.

Agraharam et al. shows, figure 1, a network broadcasting system. From the abstract, a system and method allow an Internet user to act as a broadcast session conductor by assembling audiovisual information in a multimedia document, and broadcasting that information to a predetermined group for simultaneous viewing. During the network broadcast, members of the predetermined group community) can interact with the Internet conductor using a standard telephone or other audio connection. The broadcast information may be used for such sessions as on-line training/teaching seminars, telemarketing, teleshopping (promoting exchange) and other multimedia events. From column 5, the session conductor or a broadcast service assigns each client terminal 103 in the session audience a predetermined code (authorization code w/o account specifics), which may be delivered in advance of the session by email or otherwise. Users at the client terminals 103 enter their codes to obtain access to the broadcast session, which must match the predetermined code assigned by the conductor or the broadcast service.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 23-30 and 33-40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Agraharam et al.

Agraharam et al., as applied above, shows all the limitations except for specifying different method of paying a bill, different payees, and normal business practices.

The examiner takes Official Notice that the limitations in claims 23-30 are trivial and well known in the art of making payments and would be used in any combination in order to accommodate a customer's preference.

Base on the discussion above it would have been obvious, at the time of the invention to modify the Agraharam et al. system to elaborate on ordinary matters of business in order to accommodate a customer's preference.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to all claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
